

JERUSALEM

Ideally, the stories that dominate our culture would not come from Hollywood

Everyone loves a good story. Whether it's a novel, film, or song, we are all products of the narratives that have formed us—for good or bad. Although Jesus shared His parables two thousand years ago, His stories still ripple across time. The characters resemble ourselves. The underlying truths resonate deeply in our souls. Their stark simplicity makes them easy to remember, but their subtle complexity makes them worth a closer look. So join us to study select parables from Jesus. His stories can form (or re-form) who you are and reveal more about God than you ever thought possible.
