

Rearrange - Dean Inserra

Priorities—we all have them. Daily, our attention is pulled in dozens of different directions—from our work, to home, to our roles as husbands, fathers, or friends, to the buzz and ding of notifications on our phone. The word priorities assumes a hierarchy. Everything we do is not created equal. How do we determine what comes first? That’s what this series is about. It’s about the call placed on our life by Jesus Christ to rearrange our priorities so that we are seeking Him first and everything else flows from that primary relationship. Before we are anything else we are disciples of Jesus Christ. For the next four weeks, we’re going to see what happens when we put Him above all things.

Life of David - Gregg Matte

You may have heard David was a man after God’s own heart (1 Samuel 13:14). And He was, but he was also a man like you. He had extreme ups and downs throughout his life. Many times, he honored God, but sometimes he failed miserably. But God still used him, and God wants to use you, no matter what your life has been like to this point. Over the next nine weeks we’ll journey together through the life of David. We’ll see the good, the bad, and the ugly, but ultimately we will see he was a man after God’s own heart. You can be too.

James-Noe Garcia

James is one of the most practical books in the Bible. It’s even been called the “Proverbs of the New Testament” for the amount of relatable and understandable words we find there. However, despite being among the easiest books to understand, it is one of the most difficult to live out. Repeatedly James asks us to put our money where our mouth is. He expects that we obey what we find in Scripture. He assumes that faith in Jesus is not just a set of propositions we can all agree to, but also a way of life that we must choose and embrace daily. When we follow these truths, through the power of the Holy Spirit, we demonstrate to the world around us what it looks like to take Jesus seriously.

Parables-Robby Gallaty

Around one third of Jesus’s teaching was in parables, and the truth that they communicate is essential for our spiritual growth. In His parables, Jesus took common images from the world around Him and crafted memorable stories to teach a spiritual point. Through them, we see the heart of what it means to follow Jesus.

Jonah-Juan Sanchez

Most of us know pieces of the story of Jonah. We likely know about the storm and the fish and the three days Jonah spent inside it. And maybe we know about the evil of Nineveh. But do we know the whole story? The book of Jonah reveals the grace of God to those who have rejected Him and to those like Jonah (and us), who claim to obey Him but still desire our own way.

1 John-Vance Pitman

In the first two chapters of 1 John, John addressed the believer's walk with God. Our walk can be defined as the way we live each day. Those who have been transformed by the Holy Spirit will desire to walk closely with God. John made clear that his purpose in writing was to warn his readers against sin. But he also reminded us that when we sin—and we all do—we have an advocate with the Father in Jesus, who never has (1 John 2:1).

The Bible Doesn't Say That-Grant Gaines

Only God can judge me. Follow your heart. God will never give you more than you can handle. We've all heard these well-known sayings. They are so well known, many people even believe they are found in the Bible. While these sayings aren't actually found in the Bible, Scripture does have something to say about the subjects each of them address.

The Beatitudes-Ray Ortlund

The real Jesus. The historical Jesus. The biblical Jesus. The Jesus who stands over all of us and tells us to repent. That unsettling Jesus is the one we want. Without Him, nothing will ever change. With Him, our hearts can finally crack open to the love of God. How can we disconnect with the Jesuses of our own invention and reconnect with the real Jesus?

The Beatitudes are a direct route back to Him. Let's start over. Let's listen again. Let's peel away the layers of falsehood that keep Him at a distance. All the Lord is looking for is need, openness. The risen Christ is looking down on us right now and asking, "Who needs me enough to start listening?"
