

David Livingstone served and explored different parts of South Africa. He drew maps of many rivers that ran through Botswana.

David Livingstone spent a lot of time exploring the Zambezi River, which runs alongside six countries in Africa.

Victoria Falls is a waterfall along the Zambezi River in Zimbabwe. David Livingstone was the first European explorer to find the falls. He named the falls after Queen Victoria.

David Livingstone believed that God called him to explore so that he could tell people about Jesus and work to end slavery in Africa.